LADIES LOSING WATCHES.

An Investigating Reporter Tells Where They Should Wear Them.

Going into some of the large stores up town one may notice that many of the roung women behind the counters who are so fortunate as to possess watches have the rings at the stems of their time-pieces drawn through holes in their jerseys and fastened down securely by a button, so that watch could not be removed without quite an effort, and certainly not without its wearer knowing about it. This is a scheme I wearing a watch that has gone into fashion in the stores, and it has a substantial and sensible basis Recently a great many watches have been stolen or lost, and in the tost and tound columns of the Herald a arger number than usual have been report From the small number reported as found compared with the large number reported as lost, it is apparent that either the honesty of the people who have been finding watches on the curbstones lately is at a very low standard, or else the watches were really not lost in the sense intended by the advertisers, but stolen. It has been quite fashionable for ladies, especially for those engaged in the stores, to wear their watch-es in their bosoms, with fob chains hanging out of the button-holes of their jerseys.

In most of the cases where watches have been lost the wearers had grown careless, and to save time and to have the time-pleces as available as men have theirs, they had just tucked them in between their corset covers and the corsets, instead of inside the corsets as most ladies, it is be-lieved, do. Thus worn, they were an invi-tation to a pickpocket, and in the crowds on the horse-cars and ferries just after the closing hours of the stores it was an easy matter for an expert thief to make a "haul." A lady who lives at the other end of Beacon street had the misfortune to find a watch on one of the streets down town the other day. the other day, and she advertised it in the Herald. The applicants who called right away after the appearance of the advertisement were so numerous that it was a per-son's work to attend the door. The lady was surprised that so many people could have lost watches. The police will say that there are no thieves in the city—they always do-but the young ladies up town know better.

NATURAL COWARDICE.

Colonel Dudley Tells the Story of a Sol-dier Afflicted with It.

Talking about courage and cowardice at the club the other day, says the Washing ton Post, Colonel Dudley remarked that he always had as much sympathy with a cow-ardly man as he had admiration for a brave one, for he thought nerve was a natural at tribute to man, just like a taste for art, the gift of acquiring languages, or musical talent. One man may have a gift for music. while his next-door neighbor may not be able to tell one note from another. So one man may be a natural coward, while his prother or his cousin may be born without the sense of fear.

"I had a case in my own regiment, the Nineteenth Indiana," continued Colonel Dudley. "A young fellow by the name of Woods, who was bright, well educated and came from one of the most respectable families in Indiana. He was a good camp soldier, but we were never able to get him into a battle. The sound of explosives or the sight of blood would throw him into hysterics of fear, and when he was placed in a po-sition of danger he would become uncontrollable-temporarily insune. Finally he deserted, went over into the rebel lines. and then came back with a suit of gray on, expecting that he would be sent to some Northern prison as a Confederate. But he was identified, tried by court-martial, and sentenced to be shot as a deserter. He was shot, and, strangely enough, on the day of his execution, for the first time in his life, he behaved like a hero. I never saw a man exhibit the nerve he did. He saw a man exhibit the nerve ne did. He refused to have his eyes bandaged, but stood up beside his coffin and looked straight into the barrels of the muskets that were pointed at his heart. He made an ante-mortem statement, in which he chained that his descript was not due to claime I that his desertion was not due to lack of loyalty, but to bodily fear. He thought he could get out of the army that way, and I believe his words were true."

A Question of Squeezing.

A woman of enigmatical age, who poses as a dress reformer, says that "if a young man were to squeeze a woman as hard as does her corset, she would have him arrest-ed for assault with intent 10 kill." What ismentable ignorance! This "dress re-former" may have once upon a time feit the dose, fervent clasp of a corset, but she certainly has nad no experience with the arms of — But, to slightly change the subject, doesn't she know that girls wear tight corsets to show young men how much squeezing they can stand without yelling for the

A Clear Case of Excelsior.

Sixteen years after her burnal the coffin of a Winnipeg woman was opened and the body found petrified. She had her mouth open, however, which goes to show that was game even when it came to turn-
